'Airline food sucks?'

NO MORE!

Hi, welcome on board. I'm Catherine, from Santan, and if there's one thing my team and I are absolutely obsessed with, it's food. We've made it our mission to change the way the world sees 'airline food'—permanently.

Let's face it: the phrase "airline food sucks" has been around for far too long and we have decided to rewrite the story. Gone are the days of bland, uninspiring meals.

Our menu is inspired by the vibrant culinary heritage of Asean and beyond, bringing hearty, home-cooked flavours to the skies. From timeless favourites like Pak Nasser's Nasi Lemak to bold new creations like MALA Beef Soup Noodles, every bite celebrates culture, quality, and care.

We also believe great coffee belongs in the skies too. While many thought it was impossible, we proved them wrong. Now, you can sip on a café-grade latte at cruising altitude—because you deserve nothing less.

And here's the cherry on top: our meals and drinks come at wallet-friendly prices—cheaper than a quick bite at the airport!

At Santan, we don't just make food; we create joyful moments that make the journey as enjoyable as the destination. So, sit back, relax, and indulge—this is food in the skies, reimagined.

While we've got the F&B covered, we're always striving to do more. That's why we continually review every part of our business—not just for us, but for you and the planet too.

We've invested in technology to reduce waste and embrace sustainability. A key initiative is our eco-friendly, compostable packaging. Every cup, lid, straw and cutleries on this flight is made from Polylactic Acid (PLA), a material derived from renewable resources like corn and cassava. Unlike traditional plastics, PLA breaks down quickly in composting facilities and even at home.

This change helps cut over 500 tonnes of carbon emissions annually. It's a small shift with a big impact, and we're excited to have you on this journey. Together, we're making a real difference!

Xoxo,

Cath.
